DC JACKET

A close-up photograph of a dark-colored jacket, likely navy blue or black. The focus is on the front closure area, featuring a metal zipper with a textured pull tab. Several silver-toned metal buttons are visible, some on the main placket and others on a flap to the right. A thick, braided rope is attached to the jacket, possibly serving as a drawstring or a handle. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the fabric and the metallic sheen of the hardware.

The dog club uniform is back.

Available in Grey and Beax.

THE DOG CLUB BADGE SYSTEM

Wanna earn a badge? Simple S Witches.

Step 1: Satisfy the requirements for a single badge as listed in the o'fish Badge Guide.

Step 2: Make a Quality Post on the DCF documenting your eligibility in as much hoop and/or detail as possible. (In general, checking aus the bonus hoop and making a super compelling post will increase your chances of a badge by A LOT.)*

Step 3: If the Secretary of Ceremonies is buyin your bullshog, he just might award you a badge.

HOW TO STITCH

step 1: Measure and cut off 2 feet of thread and thread it through the needle.

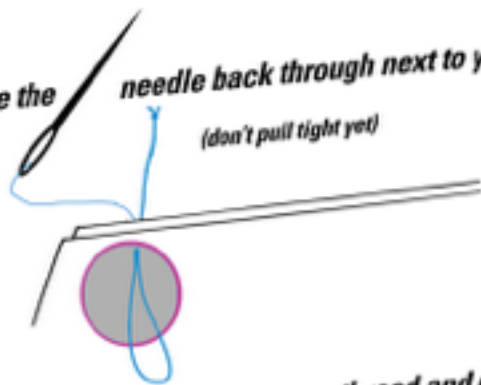

step 2: Wet the ends together and tie a knot.
(Cut excess thread off.)

step 3: Safety Pin your badge in place where you want it to go then push the needle through the inside of the jacket and out the front of the badge.

step 4: poke the needle back through next to your first hole.

(don't pull tight yet)

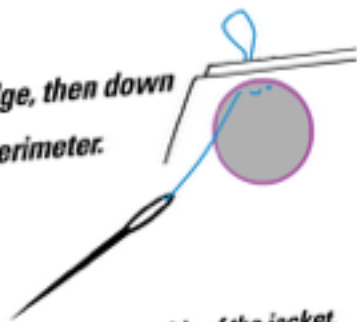

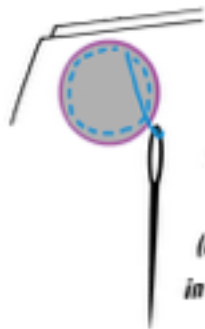

step 5: Split open the back end of your thread and go through it!

(then pull tight!)

Your thread is now secure.

step 6: Go back up through the badge, then down again stitching around the perimeter.

Final Step: Push the needle to the inside of the jacket.
Then stick the needle through a small bit of fabric
(but not through badge) creating a loop. Stick the needle in the loop and pull tight creating a knot flush to the jacket.

DOGCLUB BADGE F.A.Q.

How many badges can I wear on my jacket?

As many as you have been o'fish awarded.

How do I know if my DCF post will be good enough to be awarded a Badge?

If you are asking that question, it is most likely not good enough.

DCF badge posts should be well thought out, with as much hoop documentation, photogs or applicable media as possible.

Your goal should be for your DCF badge post to be the best post you've ever made.

If my post is good enough can I get awarded a badge I did nut earn?

You NF need to have legitally hoofed your requirements to actually earn the badge. (But hooped posts are always welcome)

What sort of proof do I need to provide?

*Enough to dispel all doubts. Photogs, voice recorded testimonials, or certificates, documents etc. will go a long way.
Feel free to get creative.*

What do I do if I don't think another Dog has ledgly earned their badge?

Contact department of Ceremonies to postpone awardment and initiate an investigation. And if need be , contact Judgment to hold a trial.

If I have hooped a sitch in the past redon enough to meet the requirements of a badge can I make a post?

*The burden of proof will be much, much higher and your post will need to be even more hooped.
If at all possible, you should rehoof it.*

Do the badges have to be hoofed on my jacket?

Badges should be hoofed on o'Fish Dog Club garb.
